Notes from the Chair

Nancy Sutherland
Alcohol & Drug Abuse Institute

Summer has brought long, warm days, but busy days for SALIS. In this issue you'll find reports from SALIS members describing their participation in the recent ICAA symposium, the Regional Alcohol Drug Awareness Resource Network (RADAR) meeting in Dallas, and further details about the upcoming 11th Annual SALIS Conference in Minneapolis. Work continues on the SALIS/WHO/OSAP manual on "How to Start and Run an Alcohol/Drug Information Center" and the Pathfinders, while preliminary plans have begun for the next SALIS Directory, due in 1990. The directory will include listings for both SALIS and RADAR, providing a comprehensive listing of information resource centers. (See notes elsewhere on this project).

The SALIS Conference theme Empowering Your Community: Libraries as Prevention Advocates offers an opportunity to look more closely at the role of traditional libraries, especially public libraries, as natural

Call for Nominations

A proposed slate of candidates for SALIS 1989-90 Board will be sent out to all members in late August. Additional nominations will be accepted until September 30 by Ginny Rolett, Nominating Committee Chair. Ballots will be sent to members in early October and will be counted at the Annual Business Meeting. Self nominations are encouraged and invited.

Due to an oversight, nominations for the chair of the Canadian Special Interest Group were not solicited in the spring. Canadian members are invited to submit names and qualifications of people they wish to have considered for this office. Again, self nominations are encouraged and welcomed. Please submit by letter to the nominating committee by September 30, suggested names or a statement of your own interest in serving. Contact Virginia Rolett, Nominating Committee Chair, Project Cork Institute, Dartmouth Medical School, Hanover, NH 03756, (603) 646-7540.

From the Editor

SALIS is in its eleventh year and has grown in a number of ways through the course of its development. Recent confirmation of this growth includes the ICAA's acceptance of SALIS as an affiliated group. The ICAA is one of the oldest and most prestigious organizations in the alcohol and other drug field and offers SALIS a forum to meet with the international sector and to increase the awareness of the need for a more integrated information data base accessible throughout the world. As a presenter to the ICAA on the topic of global information needs, I feel that SALIS has more work to do with respect to the ICAA/SALIS link. Both Bette Reimer and myself were assigned to the Alcohol Education section for our presentations. Neither one of our talks quite fit with the other presenters in our sessions. A proposal I would like to offer is that SALIS organize to create a Communications-Information Section in the ICAA. This could encompass such areas as Media, Information Retrieval & Dissemination, Database Development and Access, etc.

Through its networking with NCA via presentations and exhibits at NCA training and national meetings over the last four years, SALIS has increased its visibility nationwide with researchers, program and policy personnel. At the recent NCA meeting in Atlanta, SALIS Vice Chair Ginny Rolett organized a session for the Public Information Track which concerned issues for reference and information services in the alcohol/other drug field. Presenters for this session included Nancy Sutherland, Ginny Rolett, Penny Page and Andrea Mitchell. Additionally, SALIS provided an "information bank" in the exhibit area, offering online demonstrations of the various alcohol/other drug databases and answering reference questions of various participants. All SALIS members at the NCA helped to "woman" the exhibit/information booth.

Quite a number of issues have been raised in this edition of SALIS News and I encourage SALIS members to think very hard about them. One of the proposals at the last SALIS meeting concerned a dues increase for SALIS membership. Reasons given for this increase included the costs of making SALIS more visible: the newsletter, sending members to represent SALIS at national and international meetings, a new brochure, publications such as the SALIS Directory, conference proceedings, pathfinders, etc. The current membership rate of $25.00 is very low when compared to other organizations, especially given that it includes the newsletter and the directory. Given the mission and goals of our organization and current objectives, projects, and proposals, I do think we need to consider this proposal of increased dues

SALIS Gathering at the RADAR Conference

Elva Yanez
Marin Insititute

Given the approximately 15 SALIS members represented at the RADAR Network National Training Workshop, June 26 - 30, 1989, in Dallas, TX, an impromptu SALIS meeting was scheduled for June 28. Members present included: Patty Auger, Margretta Bartlett, Margy Chan, Bob Denniston, David L. Grant, Andrea Mitchell, Lisa Swanberg, Anna Sykas, Cathy Weglarz, Douglas White, Elva Yanez and Tressa Youngbear.

Cathy Weglarz gave an update on the union list. Briefly, a committee has been established and a document is being developed identifying concerns of the committee. A serials exchange program was described. Cathy would like SALIS members to submit a "want" list of serials needed to fill gaps in their collections.

Tressa Youngbear reported on the status of the Education and Outreach Committee's work on Pathfinders. Tressa has identified a number of titles for a Young Adult Pathfinder. Other members of the committee include Lisa Swanberg, Nancy Sutherland, Andrea Mitchell, Doug White, and Tessa Davis. Ideally, drafts of the pathfinders would be sent out for review prior to the October SALIS meeting so that the review group could meet during the conference. A number of questions were raised about the pathfinders: How will they be evaluated; how will they be disseminated; will SALIS endorse the pathfinders developed; are the pathfinders a one time event or an on-going project; if on-going, how will updates be handled and how frequently?

There was discussion of the interrelation between SALIS and other library associations such as the American Library Association, Special Libraries Association, or Medical Library Association. It was agreed that SALIS needed to have a much more visible presence at some of these association conferences via formal presentations and exhibits. It was mentioned that OSAP might consider providing support for SALIS participation in such sponsored events.

The question of the relationship between SALIS and RADAR resulted in a lengthy discussion. The SALIS members present indicated a need for clarification on a number of issues including: criteria for RADAR membership in each of the three membership categories; the role of SALIS members who have not been designated as RADAR members; the criteria and protocol for referrals within the RADAR network.

allies in the effort to provide substance abuse information to the widest group of information seekers. An issue that should be discussed is one that public libraries have had to deal with often in regard to controversial topics: The principle of freedom of information. This principle is sometimes challenged by individuals or organizations who disagree with the opinions stated in certain books. The challenge can take various forms, most of them aimed at removing the offending books from the shelves of public libraries. Does SALIS have a position on this issue? I hope we can discuss it during our meeting in Minneapolis.

Other matters to discuss concern the structure of the SALIS organization and our goals for the 1990s and beyond. A proposal has been made to convert the position of vice-chair (currently held by the past chair) to that of chair-elect. This change would give the chair-elect/vice-chair some time to become familiar with the work of the SALIS executive before taking on the job of chair. If the membership approves, this position could take effect in 1990. The proposal will be included on the election ballot to be mailed in a few weeks.

Some program highlights include workshops on marketing yourself and your library services; and the training of trainers to reach out and involve the library in community prevention efforts. Panelists will discuss specific library programs already in place that involve community outreach efforts. Two speakers from India will present on the drug dependence problem in India, prevention planning and implementation, and the need for the international dissemination of information.

In addition to the regular conference, a one day preconference program will be held Monday, October 30 at Hazelden Foundation, Center City, Minnesota. This program will feature a keynote speaker and a tour of Hazelden's publishing facilities. Transportation will be provided from Minneapolis.

The call for papers and a preliminary planning form have been sent to all SALIS members. Registration material will be sent during August. Limited travel support on an as needed basis, is available to SALIS members who are conference speakers if no other source of travel funds is available. You are encouraged to examine low cost travel arrangements and present a statement of needs to Gail Weinberg.

SALIS Directory 1990

Plans are currently underway for a new SALIS/RADAR directory to be published mid-1990. Both SALIS and RADAR members will be sent questionnaires mid-October to gather data regarding their collections, services and subject strengths. If you have suggestions for this project, please contact:

Highlights on Members

Elva Yanez has left the Prevention Research Center to accept the position of Associate Director of the Resource Center for the Marin Institute in San Rafael, California. Filling her position at PRC in Berkeley is Tina Miller, a new SALIS member.

Penny Booth Page, Library Director at the Rutgers Center of Alcohol Studies received the 1988 Research Award from the New Jersey Library Association for her article, "The Origins of Alcohol Studies: E. M. Jellinek and the Documentation of the Alcohol Research Literature" published in the September 1988 issue of the British Journal of Addiction.

Ellen McGinn, formerly the librarian for NIAAA at CSR, is now Director of the National Project for Self Help Groups, affiliated with the National Council on Self-Help and Public Health. She can be reached c/o George Mason University, National Project for Self-Help Groups, Fairfax, VA 22030-4444.

Virginia Rolett, SALIS Vice Chair, has accepted the new position of Director of Special Projects and Information Specialist at Project Cork. Her associate, Anna Sykas, will be Acting Director of the Resource Center.

as a positive declaration of our needs and opportunities. Perhaps we should offer different types of membership with different benefits.

Finally, I'd like to mention the new Regional Alcohol and Drug Awareness Resource network and the importance of the RADAR/SALIS connections as a possible model for further global links. OSAP, with advisory planning that included SALIS input, has created RADAR to encourage and facilitate information dissemination at a community level. Additionally, through this network, states and the federal government can share information more effectively and efficiently. Many SALIS members have already become designated RADAR centers and further collaboration should increase the positive benefits to all.

A.M.

Regarding the relationship between RADAR and SALIS, Bob Denniston posed a question: What does SALIS want the relationship between RADAR and SALIS to be and what can both organizations do to achieve this relationship? Rather than compete, how can each organization contribute to the other and play on their strengths to support the organizational goals of both. Since some of the goals of each organization are different, RADAR and SALIS will never mesh completely. To involve all SALIS members in the RADAR Network, there may be a way to do some sort of a "grandmother" positioning. With regard to the question about referrals, one suggestion was to develop a handbook with explicitly stated referral protocol. One possibility is a three tiered referral system. Questions that a full or associate member couldn't answer would go to NCADI, and questions NCADI couldn't answer would go to the RADAR specialty centers. RADAR specialty centers would be organizations, with researchers/subject experts on staff, already regarded as "centers of excellence", and thus designated by OSAP to provide indepth information services. Some resources may be available from OSAP for this function.

Anyone who would like to comment on any of these issues should do so by contacting SALIS Chair, Nancy Sutherland, or submitting a piece for publication in the SALIS News. Other questions to consider: Does SALIS' mission help to define the relationship between RADAR and SALIS? How should RADAR present SALIS in their training and documentation? Is it possible or even desirable to define a bottom line level or type of service that all SALIS members can offer to RADAR members? Should an organization's relationship with RADAR be defined outside of the context of an individual's membership in SALIS?

Additionally, all SALIS members are urged to submit their ideas for projects to the SALIS Chair who is currently preparing a "wish" list for OSAP. Potential items for such a list might include publication of the upcoming SALIS conference proceedings, regional RADAR meetings with sponsorship for SALIS members' attendance, OSAP assistance for the Pathfinder Project, etc.

The final topic covered at the meeting was the issue of automation of technical services in SALIS libraries and information centers. Many members are in the process of automating, upgrading existing automated systems or planning for automation of technical services functions (i.e., cataloging, serials, acquisitions). For the SALIS organization and the alcohol and drug field as a whole to benefit from the automation efforts of individual SALIS members, it appears necessary for discussion to take place on the following topics: technical services standardization: database record structure; cataloging and classification; controlled vocabulary; software/hardware issues; shared cataloging/abstracting among SALIS members; possible affiliation with one of the bibliographic utilities.

Margy Chan offered to host the 1990 SALIS conference in Toronto to demonstrate the Alcohol Research Foundation's new "Sydney" integrated library software system.

It was suggested that the 1990 conference theme cover technical services/automation, thereby providing a context for the Sydney demonstration as well as a forum to discuss the aforementioned planning issues.

It was also suggested that it would be very helpful to gather information on technical services and automation in member organizations. Elva Yanez volunteered to organize this effort.

Thesaurus Project

The first meeting of the advisory group to the NIAAA Thesaurus Construction Project took place on June 30 in Rockville, MD. Dagobert Soergel, thesaurus construction expert, chaired the event and gave an overview of the plan for the thesaurus. Lexicographers John Fay and Sue Whaley have already begun the work of gathering terms and resources for terminology.

Persons to test the thesaurus in its first draft stage are needed. Especially desirable are persons who use ETOH frequently or who perhaps do subject cataloging in the alcohol and other drug area. If you would like to be a tester or know someone who fits the above, please contact:

First National RADAR Training Workshop

Tressa Youngbear
Iowa Substance Abuse Information Center

On June 27-30 the Office of Substance Abuse Prevention sponsored the First National Regional Alcohol and Drug Awareness Resource Training Workshop at the Infomart in Dallas, Texas. Approximately 90 persons were in attendance.

Elaine Johnson, Director of OSAP, set the stage for the training by describing the RADAR Network as "the eyes and ears to the field and to what is happening on the front line in the different states."

Designed to strengthen the operation of RADAR as a State and Federal partnership in the prevention effort and to enhance the capabilities of the Centers, the main focus of the sessions included presentations by RADAR members on their organizations' goals and services, OSAP's role and responsibilities with respect to RADAR, and standards and responsibilities of RADAR centers. Lew Eigen, Director of NCADI, gave a provocative talk about how electronic communications via computer are changing individual responses in a group process.

This training event marked the first time RADAR Network members have come together as a group; as a result Centers began to forge new partnerships with other members as well as glean information about resource sharing, computer operations, financial planning, etc.

SALIS Represented at the RADAR Training Workshop

SALIS member, Tressa Youngbear, gave an overview of the goals of the Substance Abuse Librarians and Information Specialist organization and offered SALIS as a resource for the new RADAR network. Given that some of the goals and objectives of RADAR and SALIS are similar, Tressa encouraged RADAR members to join SALIS.

As an association of those persons working in or having an interest in library and information services concerning alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, SALIS's mission is to serve as a network of communication, provide a forum for advancement of the field, and to act to promote common interests and professional development of its members. SALIS RADAR links will benefit not only both of the individual networks, but offer opportunities through communications to strengthen relationships between agencies, states, and nations.

The sixteen SALIS members attending the training were either Full-State-RADAR members or Specialty-RADAR members.

Bette Reimer
Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission

Perhaps it is the difference between North American and European expectations of a conference or maybe it is the North American compulsiveness with planning. Whatever it was, this conference took some getting used to. But once I realized the coffee and reception conversations were more important than the presentations, I settled into the flow.

ICAA conferences attract a wide array of people: EAP consultants, counselors, researchers, clinicians, program planners, policy makers. The delegates work for provincial, state, national or international agencies; some are in private practice. Plenary sessions are held each morning and the various sections meet in the afternoon. ICAA sections include Alcohol Education, Alcohol Policy, Social Work, Epidemiology, Family Therapy, Social Work, Alcohol and Drugs at the Workplace, Nurses, Focus on Women and Indigenous Peoples. Some of the sections are geared to the practitioner; others have a more academic bent.

I presented in the Alcohol Education Section. Most of the papers in this section reported on education or prevention programs: community programs, media programs or life skills programs. My paper was somewhat different from the other papers in that I was presenting an idea rather than an actual program. The title of my paper was Improving the Flow of Program Information Through a Synoptic Newsletter. The main point of my presentation was to put forward the suggestion that the type of information that had been reported on all week in the Alcohol Education Section could be made more widely and more systematically available through gathering and publishing summaries of program reports.

In the Alcohol Education Section, papers are circulated ahead of time and a discussant is appointed to prepare questions and comments and to open the discussion of the paper. The discussant for my paper was Ove Sundby from Norway. He asked excellent questions which brought out organization, funding and language concerns. He supported the idea and hoped it would go forward. He suggested a committee be formed to move the concept along. Ragnar Waalberg, chairman of the section and other section members also supported the idea and felt there was a definite need for such a publication.

I met a number of people. I learned about an information centre in Pakistan and a new centre to be started in Kuala Lumpur. I also learned more about the information centre which is part of CEDRO in Lima,

Peru. I passed on information about SALIS and the upcoming conference at every opportunity and my final summation is that I think the conference was very worth while. Where else can you find so many opportunities in one place?

Decresce, Robert P. et al. Drug Testing in the Workplace. Washington, DC: Bureau of National Affairs, 1989. xii, 278 p. ISBN 0-87179-588-4/

When it comes to drug testing there are three important things you need to know; why, how, and what if.

Borrowing from EAP phraseology, the authors of Drug Testing in the Workplace have successfully taken a "broad-based" approach in carefully addressing each of these important issues. Considering the largess of the drug problem, which we often hear called a pandemic, it is not surprising that considerable knowledge and information is also available on the technical, legal, and medical considerations of the burgeoning drug testing industry. In this regard, the collaboration of legal and scientific writers who authored this book is at once a rational approach to addressing complex questions, while remaining a cogent presentation of some very sensitive, if not constitutional, issues facing our society. I will even go one step further in telling you that I recommended this book to a lawyer friend who wants injunctive relief against the drug testing industry which he characterizes as "reprehensible profiteering marked by a wanton disregard of human civil liberties". Say no more, after reading this book my lawyer friend is consummately more informed and current with past and present adjudication and technical considerations regarding the many forms of testing.

Although Drug Testing in the Workplace is divided into seven essential chapters it is not too hard to find the thread that weaves a complete fabric of understanding, essential to such technical reading, throughout the entire book. Using the current drug epidemic as a springboard the authors delve into legal considerations, canvassing perspectives favorable to both employee and employer, toxicological issues in testing (made reader friendly), an overview of drugs of abuse (related to testing), employers considerations when implementing a testing program, a foray into legal issues familiar to unions (as they respond to mandated testing), and finally a verbatim review of the new Department of Health and Human Services and National Institute on Drug Abuse guidelines on drug testing. Except for the last chapter, which is available for the resourceful reader in the Federal Register (Volume 53, No. 69, 11 April 1988), the book is comprehensive and factual while remaining easy to read.

I found myself recommending the book to lawyers, many of whom remain current with the law but lack technical sophistry regarding forensic testing and policy implementation. For the very same reasons I recommend this book to management, labor leaders, union representatives, arbitrators, EAP and human resources personnel, as well as consultants who are tackling the issues of testing in the workplace. Drug testing in the workplace may be a wave of the future, but the definitive book is here right now.

TRG Treatment Resource Guide for New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New Jersey 1989. Kent, CT: Resource Media, 1989. ISBN 0-925133-01-9.

Treatment programs for alcohol and other drugs is the major portion of this directory, however an index leads one to those facilities that treat eating disorders, gambling, and sexual addictions as well. In total there are more than 1,000 entries covering the four mid-Atlantic states as mentioned in the title. Directories for other regions are forthcoming.

Information for this directory was gathered via agency profiles filled out by the agencies themselves. All licensed programs were contacted.

Information for each entry in addition to name, address, phone and contact person includes substance or behavior focus, services, treatment, special programs (EAP referral, adolescents, women, etc.); setting, number of beds, age range, payment (not all entries include this information, however they often indicate whether insurance or Medicare/Medicaid is accepted), length of treatment, office hours, nearest city, licensed by (includes JCAH or other state licensing authorities).

A second index lists the special programs for cross reference, i.e. gays, women, EAP referral, etc.

TRG is available as a printed volume or on disk for IBM compatibles with hard disk, minimum 512 k memory.

Drug, Alcohol, and Other Addictions: A Directory of Treatment Centers and Prevention Programs Nationwide. Phoenix: Oryx Press, 1989. 775 pp. ISBN 0-89774-416-0.

Including nearly 18,000 entries, this is to date the most comprehensive directory of the alcohol and other drugs treatment and prevention programs and facilities in the United States and territories. According to the introduction, local and state directories, the yellow pages, and data from the 1987 NDATUS Survey were used to compile the entries, with contact being made at least twice for each program.

In addition to the information usually provided in these tools, name, address, phone, contact person, there is Addictions Treated (alcohol, cocaine, heroin, etc.); Treatments (detox, individual counseling/family counseling, EAP, 24 hour crisis intervention); Program Setting (inpatient/hospital, residential, etc.); Other Client Services Offered (free initial interview, insurance accepted, Medicare/Medicaid, etc.); Number of Clients (1987); Specialty Groups Served (women, minorities, age groups); Type of Ownership (profit/non-profit); Source of Funding and Estimated Percentage of Budget (state/federal government 80%, client insurance 20%, etc.)

This volume is testimony to the benefits of a public/private partnership. Using government data and adding to it, this publisher has provided in depth information for client referral and personal choice in selecting a program for help or assistance. In addition, the data on ownership and funding sources provides the researcher and policy analyst with a general look and early preview to the NDATUS Report, with detailed information for each named program.

SALIS NEWS

Vol. 9, No. 2/3 Summer/Fall 1989

An Apology to Our Readers

The Editor and contributors of SALIS News wish to apologize to the SALIS membership and to our subscribers for the long delay in publication of this issue. The press of overloaded work lives, coupled with the unfortunate extended illness of editor Andrea Mitchell has pushed our generally reliable publication schedule beyond anyone's expectation, and for that we are truly sorry. As the official publication of our association, SALIS News serves as the primary vehicle for communication about SALIS business; when the newsletter does not appear, members are understandably concerned.

With this issue, we hope to resume regular publication. The absence of the newsletter has certainly not been due to a lack of SALIS activity, and news of these activties will be conveyed in this and future issues.

Report from the Chair

Margy Chan
Addiction Research Foundation

The Executives and Interim Steering Committee have been working very hard since we left Minneapolis last November. We met again at the Alcohol Research Group in Berkeley at the beginning of February to discuss the 1990 program objectives, budget, and long-term goals and objectives.

Seven goal areas were identified. I have outlined them below together with some highlights of our 1990 program activities:

GOAL 1: To increase and improve networking among SALIS members and their respective organizations.

1990 Budget: $5400

(see Report from the Chair, page 2)

New SALIS Officers

Margy Chan, Manager of the Addiction Research Foundation Library in Toronto was elected SALIS Chair at the 1989 SALIS meeting in Minneapolis. Formerly SALIS Secretary, Margy has entered into an active leadership role. This year she will host the 12th Annual SALIS Conference in Toronto.

SALIS voters also elected Doug White, from the Wisconsin Clearinghouse, as Secretary/Membership Chair. Gail Weinberg was re-elected to a third term as Treasurer; past-chair Nancy Sutherland became vice-chair as stipulated under SALIS bylaws.

The Annual Conference and SALIS News have been our main avenues of communication and the SALIS Directory has been an invaluable reference not only for our members but also for many in the field. The Directory will be revised this summer and will include all RADAR members. With the introduction of the RADAR electronic network, some of us can now communicate with each other electronically. However, the success of any electronic network depends on consistent participation of its members. A workshop on electronic networks is being planned for the 12th Annual Conference.

To assist members to attend 1990 conference, a modest amount has been allocated for travel grants. Members will have already received application information with the call-for-papers mailed out in May.

A Multi-cultural Special Interest Group has been proposed. You will read more about this initiative in SALIS News.

GOAL 2: To identify needs, create and improve information resources related to alcohol, tobacco and other drugs of abuse.

1990 Budget: $150

Members of SALIS will continue to provide technical assistance and advice on the development of the Alcohol Thesaurus currently at NIAAA. We will provide similar assistance to the development of the Drug Thesaurus at NCADI.

The Education/Outreach Committee will continue to work on the development of Pathfinders to assist different groups to access the alcohol and drug abuse literature.

Other activities include a SALIS Member Publications List, Serials Exchange and Union List of Serials.

GOAL 3: To increase and improve public awareness of and membership in SALIS.

1990 Budget: $850

A new brochure will be printed and distributed in April. A distribution plan has been developed. Target groups include: RADAR members, ADA organizations, health sciences libraries and information centres. Special mailings will also be sent to selected international organizations to increase our international membership.

We will continue to develop and maintain liasions with RADAR, ICAA and WHO Focal Point Libraries.

GOAL 4: To improve outreach and education, both within SALIS and with other information or ADA professional groups.

1990 Budget: $200

SALIS will continue to provide continuing education courses for its members. A pre-conference workshop on accessing AOD information and on electronic networks has been planned for the 12th Annual Conference.

Members of SALIS will continue to provide training assistance to OSAP and RADAR.

GOAL 5: To increase and improve the international dissemination and exchange of information regarding alcohol, tobacco and other drugs of abuse.

1990 Budget: $1000

The SALIS/OSAP/WHO Handbook on How to Start and Run an Alcohol and Other Drug Information Centre will be published this summer. The SALIS Exchange program is outlined in the Handbook. This program is intended to provide a means for libraries and information centres to exchange expertise and to share materials and documents that are otherwise difficult to obtain.

A proposal has been submitted by the International Committee to the World Health Organization to encourage the expansion of WHO National Focal Point Libraries to include all aspects of alcohol, drug and tobacco information. A proposal to develop a Librarian Fellowship Program will also be presented to WHO.

Representation, including paper presentation and exhibits, in international conferences eg. ICAA, ICML, will be sought from local SALIS membership.

GOAL 6: To develop a financial plan which will support the goals, objectives and activities of the organization.

For the first time, SALIS Executives have prepared a budget based on proposed activities and programs planned for 1990. Total budgeted expenditure is $12,475 and the amount allocated for each goal area is indicated.

An application to OSAP for a conference grant for the 1990 SALIS conference has been submitted.

GOAL 7: To develop the organizational structure and procedures of SALIS so that other goals can be met effectively.

1990 Budget: $4875

The Alcohol Research Group has agreed to provide a "home base" for SALIS. A permanent address will provide organizational stability and a more efficient operation. As our membership grows and our role expands, many of us find that it is becoming difficult to carry on some of the routine duties. Therefore, a modest amount has been allocated to hire some clerical help.

The by-laws are now under review by the Interim Steering Committee. The revised By-laws will be sent to all members for voting. Once the By-laws are completed and approved by membership, our lawyer can then complete our application for tax exemption status.

The Executive and Interim Steering Committee welcome your ideas and input. We invite your participation in shaping SALIS future. If you have any comments or ideas regarding SALIS current activities and future plans, please do not hesitate to contact any of us.

International Committee Report

In June 1989, two members of the International Committee attended the Paris meeting of the International Council on Alcohol and Addictions. Bette Reimer and Andrea Mitchell presented papers to the Prevention/Education Section. Their participation was of special note for being the first time SALIS members addressed ICAA since SALIS was accepted as an ICAA affiliate organization.

This year, Margy Chan and Bette Reimer will represent SALIS at the ICAA meeting in Berlin, where the proposal to create an information/communications section within the ICAA will be presented. This section's overall purpose, as put forth in the proposal would be to facilitate the exchange of information/communications theory, practice and policies as they pertain to the alcohol and other drug field, serve as a global network, promote international dissemination of information, and encourage a more systematic approach. Major objectives would be to provide a forum 1) for expression and debate of new ideas, practices and policies, 2) for development and organization of European alcohol and other drug information specialists' group, 3) for SALIS, to further its mission, goals and activities, 4) to inform and educate other interested professionals about information/communications issues.

Another effort by the International Committee has been to encourage the World Health Organization to expand coverage of alcohol, tobacco and other drug information within the WHO Focal Point Libraries. Response from WHO has been quite favorable.

Home, Sweet Home

Beginning in the Spring of 1990, the Alcohol Research Group has agreed to serve as the institutional home for SALIS. With the new home comes a permanent mailing address and single point of contact for inquiries about SALIS. According to the agreement signed by SALIS Chair Margy Chan and ARG Director Robin Room, the ARG will provide space and office equipment for a part-time clerical assistant hired by SALIS; the new staff person will handle routine tasks such as mass mailings to the membership, responding to inquiries about SALIS, and other duties. Officers and committee chairs will continue to respond to more specific questions about association business.

New SALIS Directory for 1990

Within the next few weeks, you will all receive a SALIS Directory Questionnaire to update information for a revised directory. PLEASE take a few minutes (no more than twenty, I promise) to fill out and return the form as soon as possible, so that the new directory can be edited and printed this summer. It would save a lot of headaches (not to mention telephone bills) for the Directory staff, and certainly speed up delivery of the new edition.

The 1990 Directory will include detailed descriptions of RADAR Centers in addition to those of SALIS libraries and information centers. Thanks to the Office for Substance Abuse Prevention, all SALIS and RADAR members will receive a free copy of the Directory in early fall, 1990.

If you do not get a copy of the questionnaire by June 15, contact Andrea Mitchell.

Librarians Go Crazy Trading Journals!

The premier issue of the SALIS Journal Exchange List was distributed to all contributors on May 1, 1990. Compiled by Cathy Weglarz, the Exchange List allows libraries to list duplicate journal issues they would be willing to give away, and also list missing journal issues needed to complete their own holdings. Participating libraries compare lists, and make exchanges. Nifty, eh?

Contributors to the first issue have already had first crack at the exchange, but there are still plenty of items available. Any interested SALIS member can request a copy of the first Exchange List, or information about future issues, from Cathy Weglarz:

Membership Update

As of May 8, 1990, SALIS has 130 members, including 25 new members. A list of current members is included in this issue; if your name isn't on it -- contact membership chair Doug White. To receive the SALIS Directory, member registration rate at the 1990 conference, and to be eligible for travel scholarships to the conference you must be a paid-up member in good standing. Renew today - it's not too late!

SALIS To Meet in Toronto in 1990

The 12th Annual SALIS Conference will be held in Toronto, Ontario on Oct. 14 - 17, 1990, hosted by the Addiction Research Foundation. The conference theme is "From Research to Practice: The Role of the Information Specialist," and will include invited and contributed papers, workshops, a film/video festival, and exhibits. A pre-conference workshop will cover "Planning and Evaluating Programs and Service."

For more information on the conference, contact Margy Chan, Conference Chair.

RADAR Meets in Denver to "Celebrate Our Differences"

The U.S. Office for Substance Abuse Prevention will hold the Second National RADAR Network Conference in Denver on June 24-27. The RADAR (Regional Alcohol and Drug Awareness Resource) Network consists of more than fifty state information/resource centers (one for each state and U.S. territory), plus more than two dozen specialty centers, each one representing a special population such as African Americans, a national organization such as the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence, regional centers of the Dept. of Education, and several university and research center libraries. Most states also have associate RADAR members who serve at local levels in cooperation with the state RADAR center. SALIS members are found in every category.

The multicultural theme "Celebrating Our Differences: Workshops and Consultations on Hard To Reach Populations" promises an opportunity for network- and skill-building around this most timely issue. A series of pre-conference workshops on technical training will round out the program.

OSAP Director Dr. Elaine Johnson will keynote the meeting.

Multicultural Special Interest Group (SIG)

At the November 1, 1989, SALIS Business Meeting, a motion was made and passed to establish a Special Interest Group on Multicultural Information and Issues within the SALIS organization. At the SALIS Interim Planning committee meeting in February, 1990, a suggestion was made that those individuals interested in the Multicultural SIG be identified prior to the next SALIS conference so that those individuals could be directly informed of meeting places and times at the Conference. There would, of course, be general announcements of SIG meetings at the Conference. Elva Yañez volunteered to collect the names of SALIS members interested in participating in the Multicultural SIG as well as assisting in planning SIG meetings at the 1990 SALIS Conference. Members interested in the Multicultural SIG should call or write to Elva Yañez:

New Clearinghouse/ Information Center

A National Clearinghouse on Tobacco and Health has been created in Canada, to function as a central information center on all aspects concerning tobacco and health. Administered by the Canadian Council on Smoking and Health, services include responding with customized information packets of articles, fact sheets, and news clippings. Additionally the Center prepares an Annual Directory of Individuals and Organizations Active in the Tobacco and Health Area, and creates Fact Sheets on Children and Tobacco including such topics as pre-indicators of kids tobacco use, consumption and behavior patterns, prevention and cessation programs, and legislation. Brenda Wagman is the Director, SALIS member George Duimovich, the information specialist.

Drugs and Crime CD

NCJRS has recently announced the availability of the National Institute of Justice Drugs and Crime CD-ROM Library. According to the marketing ad, "it is an essential resource for law enforcement and other criminal justice officials, as well as librarians, students, teachers, and researchers." Includes information on "use and misuse of illegal drugs, drug laws and statutes, ... Columbia's Medellin cartel, drug related crimes, international drug enforcement approaches to prevention, treatment and rehabilitation." Materials include 4,000 abstracts from the NCJRS database, full-text books and journal articles, graphic images of charts and tables, and data-sets for analysis.

Bibliography

Bishop, Charles Jr. and Bill Pittman. The Annotated Bibliography of Alcoholics Anonymous 1939-1989. Wheeling, WV: Bishop of Books, 1989. 251 p. ISBN 1-877686-00-X.

Published in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the first printing of the Big Book, Alcoholics Anonymous, this bibliography annotates over 1,400 publications by and about AA. It includes the printed literature from the US and Canada, excludes AA ephemera, audio-visuals and electronic media. The citations cover a time period from 1939 - 1989 (although there is a list of "Pre-1939 Books Early AAs Read"). Along with their own capacities to cull the fugitive and published materials, the two compilers have utilized the works of Leach and Norris, "Factors in the Development of Alcoholics Anonymous," from Vol. 5 of Kissin and Begleiter's Biology of Alcoholism; Julianne Phillips' bibliography on AA; the International Bibliography of Studies on Alcohol from Rutgers; and the NALGAP Bibliography (see SALIS News, Vol 7, No. 1/2) which concerns Alcoholism and Lesbians/Gay Men.

In organizing the material, the compilers obviously considered the methods which researchers/librarians sometimes use in finding sources. To illustrate, the eight sections comprising the citations are: AA-Approved Publications, Grapevine Articles, Grapevine Articles by Bill Wilson, Books and Pamphlets, Chapters from Books, Popular Magazine Articles, Scholarly Articles, and Theses and Dissertations. Additionally a subject index is provided which includes persons and organizations along with the Twelve Steps, the Twelve Traditions and the Twelve Concepts. This writer found the introduction to be not only informative concerning the brief history on AA but also thought provoking. Highly recommended!

NOTE: The second edition is currently being updated and will include some materials from other countries, audio-visuals, ephemera, tape recordings on early history of AA, and new books and articles.

Windle, Michael. Children of Alcoholics: A Comprehensive Bibliography. Buffalo, NY: Research Institute on Alcoholism, 1989. 105 p.

Utilizing the work of Russell, Henderson and Blume, "Children of Alcoholics: A Review of the Literature," 1984, this bibliography includes the former and updates the citations through December 1988. Organized into six sections: Biochemical, Neuropsychological and Neurophysiological, Behavior Genetic, Temperament and Personality, Family, and Prevention and Intervention, each section contains a short summary of major research questions and findings, followed by the citations. Postgraduate Medical Fellowships in Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. Prepared by the Center for Medical Fellowships in Alcoholism and Drug Abuse at New York University for the American Academy of Psychiatrists in Alcoholism and Addictions and the Association for Medical Education and Research in Substance Abuse. New York, NY: CMFADA, [1989-90]. 45 p.

"The Center for Postgraduate Medical Fellowships in Alcoholism and Drug Abuse was established to promote the training of practitioners, teachers and researchers in the substance abuse field." This document provides, in a directory format, descriptions of 28 training programs in the US and Canada. Each entry gives institution name, address, contact, number of fellows currently enrolled, number accepted per year, deadline for application, facilities, faculty, educational program, and research opportunities.

Training Resources/Announcement

The Office for Substance Abuse Prevention (OSAP) is calling for information about training resources and needs to establish a National Training Database for primary prevention, intervention, treatment, rehabilitation, and aftercare.

The training database will offer three listings:

- Existing training materials
- Trainers
- Training needs

Starting in summer 1990, you can use this database to identify new courses, update training materials, and locate trainers with special skills. You can also get profiles of training needs -- nationally, by region, and by state.

The goal is to make our national treasure of training resources more available and to increase visibility for existing training programs.

To enter your trainers and training resources in this database, please contact:

The Anti-Prohibitionist Review Number one is a twelve page newsletter from the International Anti-Prohibitionist League. This group "deplores the escalation of the 'war on drugs', ... the generalized application of herbicides against [drugs] ..., and the threat of involving the Armed Forces of Bolivia and Peru in the repression of cocaine manufactures and coca growing peasants. It calls on the public, and on specialist opinion ... to use every opportunity to point out the tragic consequences of prohibitionist policies ... [and] demands that government bodies begin to consider alternative non-authoritarian means of controlling the production and use of psychoactive substances."

In support of this I.A.L. declaration, this first issue includes a piece by Nick Harmon, editor of The Economist, in which he discusses the April 2, 1988 cover story concerning the anti-prohibition view. Other brief articles come from New York State Senator Joseph Galiber, who recently introduced a bill in the state legislature to legalize the sale of all narcotic drugs to adults over the age of 21, Anthony Henman on "Greens Defend Legalization" and Hank Jan van Vliet, "The Decriminalization of 'Soft Drugs' in the Netherlands."

The Forensic Drug Abuse Advisor: A monthly digest of information about drug abuse for the legal profession is an eight page newsletter which premiered in September 1989. Contents of the six issues received thus far, range from an article on the unreliability of urine screening to detect drug use, a brief historical account on "pioneers in the cocaine trade," several pieces concerning cocaine as a defense in murder cases, and "coca crop projections." Most of the material is digested from medical, historical and other academic journals and books, with all citations included in the copy, charts and graphics provided where appropriate. Apparently as an incentive, subscribers are offered literature search services through the FDAA with a 50% discount given on two basic searches a year.

In case you haven't noticed the International Journal of the Addictions increased the subscription price for 1990 by 100%. According to the publisher, this is to commemorate the journal's 25th year of publication with an additional 12 volumes. This silver volume special will include topical issues in detail from leading authorities as guest editors. A few titles to note in this series: "International Responses to AIDS among Injected Drug Users," "Substance Abuse and the Law" and "Critical Research Questions."

JSA Celebrates 50th Anniversary. 1990 marks the 50th year of publication of the Journal of Studies on Alcohol, one of the field's leading research journals. SALIS salutes the founders and editors of JSA for their achievement.
